Building the Future: Material Partnership

Ebankome is the leading online platform for buying, selling, advising, and financing private companies. Trusted by business owners and deal professionals worldwide, EBANKOME provides a well-recognized space to discover opportunities and connect with new transaction partners. A highly effective way to reach foreign buyers is to work with someone who leverages their network to sell your products abroad. This may be a local sales agent, representative, or distributor with expertise in your industry. They should be skilled at identifying opportunities and well-versed in local regulations and logistics.

Collaboration in Construction Projects

EBANKOME projects do not only consist of ecological materials, energy efficiency, and consideration of social factors, but also of long-lasting and socially sustainable cooperation in planning and construction. This not only creates a stable basis for the project but ultimately leads to a successful construction project. Within the framework of an interdisciplinary working group of EBANKOME, we study the connection between the lived project culture, economic success, and after-sales service.
